To Los Angeles Examiner:

ONE congressional candidate wants the Red China government where we can look at it! Recognition either by the United Nations or the United States would be used as a psychological and political battering-ram against those parts of Asia still non-Communist. Should Asia fall, Africa, the Middle East and Europe would not be far behind.

An embassy in Peking would be allowed only to see what the Reds want us to see--little more than we know now through our CIA and the Nationalist Chinese mainland underground. Washington would suffer another invasion of spies.

What advantage did we gain by recognizing Russia? Trade actually fell off and has never been more than one per cent of our total world export-import business.

This candidate should cease advocating this, especially since both national political parties have turned down the idea.

JOHN E. EDWARDS,
West Los Angeles.
